POLICE IN a Philadelphia suburb shot and killed a man who was a suspect in a Bronx stabbing, authorities said Monday.

Cops in Bristol Township opened fire on Jose Gomez-Burgos at about 12:15 p.m. Friday, after he "confronted police officers with a weapon or weapons," said Larry King of the Bucks County district attorney's office.

Hours earlier, Gomez-Burgos repeatedly stabbed his 25-year-old girlfriend outside their apartment building, police sources said. She was rushed to St. Barnabas in critical condition but is on the mend, cops said.

Several details surrounding the shooting remain murky. The Bucks County DA's office, which is investigating the shooting, didn't describe the type of weapon the man held.
