THE CITY'S largest police union is asking a judge to stop the NYPD from releasing body camera footage of a deadly police-involved shooting in the Bronx.

In court papers filed Wednesday, the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association argued the NYPD shouldn't be allowed to release video in the Jan. 29 shooting of bike messenger Michael Hansford, 52.

The PBA wants to bar the release of all body cam videos without a court order, or the participating officer's consent.

Police shot and killed Hansford after he allegedly attacked his landlord and lunged at cops with a knife.
